Traveling the world for a year and skyscanner has been really great for finding and comparing flights as well as keeping an eye on the costs. I knocked off one star because it doesn't have one feature that would make it perfect for me I want the ability to set airlines/hotel chains/car rental companies to search as part of my profile and not have to toggle them on and off through a filter for each search. Also the ability to exclude/limit to "budget" companies in each category would be nice.

Generally love the app hence 4 stars. But there's nothing more infuriating when trying to login than an app that times out or resets while you're getting the verification code from your email. Recently switched phones and got myself stuck in an infinite verification loop. Each time I left the app to open my email and get the code, on

Upon updating the app, it appears that a lot of the previously removed functionality has been returned to the app. Estimated prices in the date window are back, although somewhat less expansive that I would hope (and fewer than appear using google flights). The bar graph view is not here though, which is disappointing. The explore feature doesn't feel streamlined and feels a little too "curated" for my liking. Estimated prices for suggested travel cities don't show up in the explore page.
